

ABSTRACT

A fiber optic apparatus formed by fusing together multiple optical fibers and stretching the fused optical fibers to form a tapered portion. The tapered portion is cleaved
5 or cut and polished to form a facet at which an optical beam is received or transmitted.